

Quad State Instructors was formed in 1964 by electric utility safety professionals from Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa.

Members now hail from more than 28 states. Meetings are held twice a year, in January and June, with an optional meeting that can be held at the annual NUTSEA conference. During meetings, members exchange information and solutions, upgrade skills, and expand an ever-growing collection of shared training programs. New members are always welcome, as there is never too much knowledge and experience. Most of our members work with an Electric Cooperative or Municipal Power. If you are interested in attending a meeting or becoming a member, do not hesitate to contact us.

What Kills/Saves Lineworkers

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The QSI Safety, Training, & Leadership Conference concept came about in 2022. The core function of QSI has always been to promote collaboration between those that provide education and training to lineworkers.

This collaboration is the foundation of our group. The idea of hosting a national safety conference targeting up-and-coming lineworkers, not supervisors, is new.

Apprentices and supervisors have many opportunities to attend training. However, there seems to be a lull for lineworkers who are 5-20 years into their career. QSI members saw this as an opportunity.

Our target attendees are the people who actively influence the safety culture at their utility. They are sought out by an apprentice if they have a question. These people take the time not only to show but to explain why specific tasks are done a certain way. The goal of this conference is not only to educate but to provide a place and means for people to collaborate, share, and engage with each other.

There are no conference fees for this training. Except for travel and lodging, the cost to attend is zero. You cannot buy your way in. This conference is different. The only way someone can attend is if a member of QSI recommends them. This is how we ensure we have the right people in attendance. Limiting attendees to one per utility is not an accident. This is done to encourage participation and eliminate concerns that open discussions may negatively affect them when they return to work.

If you are attending, you are in a very impressive group. You are here with some of the best out there. Reach out. Don't hesitate to introduce yourself and build a network of like-minded folks to collaborate with.
